What is the point of money, if you've got to work for it to make more and more but cannot enjoy it at the moment. I used to be like you, somewhat. In my village, before I turned into a wanderer, we used to share everything amongst our neighbours, be it milk, eggs, crops, everything. We used to be like a big family.

I didn't have much but my farm wasn't small either. It could have sustained us for at least a good number of years. We didn't yearn for much. But one day . . .

SHOURYA
You see, life is unfair. It wasn't a long time ago. We…I used to live a silent life with my wife and kid. One day my brother-in-laws decided to visit us. At first we were glad, as in almost three or four years since we had been married, they couldn't find time to come, or rather they didn't want to as I later found out. We always knew there were financial problems in their place and we always tried to send money and help them out whenever but their pride refused to take it and they always sent it back. Turns out they were already very very deep in debt and that too from the wrong kind of people.
He bgh dostaa zindagi khup kathya lavnari haay. Lay vakt nay zala jyaveli me mazi malkin an maz por anandan shantit rahaycho.
